

Welcome to the Faculty of Agronomy

International activities of the FA consist of many aspects. The primary level of an international cooperation and the most used one is the student's mobility under the terms of the Socrates-Erasmus program. There are about 25 partner universities for an exchange of students as well as for teacher's mobility.

The second main aspect involves the research and scientific cooperation, departments and individual research teams collaborate or lead international projects in EU programs, 5th and 6th FP, cooperation with the USA in NATO projects and a bilateral cooperation as the AKTION or BARRANDE programs.

International Activities are coordinated by the Faculty Foreign Office or by the Foreign Office of
